THE WORTH OF THE INDIVIDUAL

One shimmering star in a constellation . . . a single leaf flirting with its neighbors on a majestic oak . . . a hobby horse galloping around its merry-go-round corral . . . hot chocolate defeating the chill of a blustery football game . . . the radiance of a smile lighting up with a hint of happiness . . .

Tiny things all, yet who can measure their intrinsic value—the value that completes, perfects, refines, and expands the sphere of which they are a part. Such is the individual, the essence of unity . . . Lexington High School, 1969.

... THE ESSENCE OF UNITY

"Your grade this six weeks will consist of a theme, two tests and an oral presentation" . . . "Well no, a hangnail won't excuse you from Phys. Ed." . . . "Sociology is NOT the study of dating" . . . "Even Picasso would have trouble figuring this one out" . . . "I hardly think that Mr. Thompson would approve of the installation of a computer date system" . . .

A history class, absorbed in Napoleon, Rasputin, Alexander Hamilton, de Gaulle . . . Latin students struggling to comprehend the poetic constructions of the AENEID . . . $e=mc^2$, $Ag + Cl = AgCl$, $\log 9 = n \log 5$. . . rhythmic staccato, confident fingers punctuating the keyboard . . . woodwork students patiently shaping graceful figures from formless blocks of wood . . .

Presenting challenges, delegating responsibilities, cultivating intellect, inspiring creativity, stimulating individuality—Academics . . . the pulse of Lexington High School.

 contemplating . . .
 organizing . . .

laughing . . . teasing . . .

speculating . . . listening . . .

directing . . . wondering . . .

bossing . . . criticizing . . .

Life's ever-shifting kaleidoscope—gaily colored bits and pieces of swirling brilliances blended together in countless patterns of unique personalities—formed the 1969 mosaic of Lexington High School. As the images altered, each luminous particle, distinct in individual lustre, added its special sparkle to the symmetry of the complete design. Tumbling and whirling, the tiny shapes fell into place, rearranging themselves until their pattern was perfect.

As the images altered . . . early morning flurries calming to a miasma of drowsy afternoon minds . . .
kneeboots and turtlenecks yielding to sandals and open collars with the first breath of spring . . . forsaking classroom routine for the freedom of acting on a whim, or just doing something different . . .

lonely . . . empty . . . buildings wait . . .

to be awakened . . . Life . . . People . . .

DEDICATION

Lexington High School is more than a center of learning, a building to which 900 students commute in their search for education; it is a community in itself. Its environment encourages serious meditation, youthful jubliance, scholastic exploration, cultural awareness, athletic achievements, and open communication.

To all those who have contributed to this environment . . . our parents, friends, the faculty and administration, the colleges and industries, and the citizens of Lexington and Rockbridge county . . . we, the Crystal staff of 1969, extend our sincere appreciation and thanks.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

DR. FULP AND MR. KAY LEFT JUNE 30, 1969

Dr. Kenneth E. Fulp
B.S. Duke University
M.Ed. University of Virginia
Ed. D. University of Virginia

Lexington High School was sorry to see both our Superintendents leave at the end of the 1968-69 session. Mr. Kay retired and Dr. Fulp went to Chesapeake. Both of these administrators exemplified the qualities of individual integrity and dedication which greatly benefitted Lexington High School and its operation. Their many contributions will remain with the students and faculty of L.H.S. long after their individual talents are employed in other endeavors.

In addition to Dr. Fulp and Mr. Kay the affairs of Lexington High School were taken care of by a group of dedicated men. These men, The Joint Committee, led by Mr. Sam Johnson, chairman, spent many hours discussing the suggestions of our superintendents and our principal. Their desire was, at all times, to give the students of Lexington an ever-increasing "quality" education which would meet the needs of each individual, of the group, and of our community.

Thank you Dr. Fulp, Mr. Kay and each member of the board.

MR. FLOYD S. KAY

Mr. Floyd S. Kay, Superintendent
Rockbridge County Schools
B.A. University of Richmond
Two Years—T. C. Williams Law School
M.A. University of Virginia
Graduate Work - University of North Carolina

Mr. Floyd S. Kay, Superintendent of Rockbridge County Schools since 1949, retired at the end of the 1968-69 school session. He served the public schools of Virginia with distinction for forty-two (42) years as teacher, coach and administrator. A partial list of his achievements in Rockbridge County attests to his dedication and his ability to foresee the needs of the schools of this community . . . consolidated schools . . . broadened curriculum . . . better qualified teachers . . . percentage increase in high school graduates and graduates continuing their education . . . increased teacher salaries . . . in-service training for personnel financed by state scholarships and the local board . . . and diversification of services. Mr. Kay with never-failing courtesy gave of his time freely, not only to his heavy duties as a school administrator, but to his community as well.

Thank you, Mr. Kay, for your interest, dedication, and concern for all of the students of Rockbridge County and Lexington.

MR. THOMPSON, PRINCIPAL, HAD TIME FOR ALL.

Mr. Frank L. Thompson
Principal
A.B. College of William and Mary
M.Ed. College of William and Mary

Mr. Thompson involved students, faculty, and groups composed of both in making school plans. Patience . . . Tolerance . . . Respect for Individual Needs . . . Concern for the well-being of All . . . these were the key words when you saw varied groups at work. These groups were all sizes and were found in many places — Mr. Thompson's office, the library, the art room, in 203. Wherever they were, you would be sure to find the administration, the faculty, and the students together . . . questioning . . . answering . . . wondering . . . analyzing . . . planning . . . and offering constructive criticism. Results of these sessions were seen in many ways . . . renewed school spirit . . . strengthened respect for the Honor Code . . . formation of a committee to work through the summer to re-write the social studies and English curriculums, particularly in the area of the contributions of the Negro to American history and culture . . . and a broadening of the role of the S.C.A. in the government of the school.

SENIORS: Barbara Henderson (back to the camera), Debbie Smith, Christie Miller, Sherri Richards, and Ken Fulp make plans with Mr. Thompson.

FACULTY: Mrs. Wertz, Miss Clark, Mr. Potter and Mrs. Adamson find that all problems are not necessarily serious ones.

Thank you, Mr. Thompson, for giving your time and leadership in helping all of the students and all of the faculty feel that each was working for the good of all.

MR. BARTON AND OUR SECRETARIES WERE BUSY!

Mr. James William Barton
Assistant Principal
East Tennessee State University, B.S.
University of Virginia

Fear and guilt . . . these are often the first feelings to creep into a student whenever he was called to "the office" . . . but students at L.H.S. found their visits to the office no need for alarm . . . most of the time, that is.

Mr. Barton as assistant principal had a busy time in "the office" . . . "Mr. Barton, I need an excuse to get into class." . . . "Mr. Barton, can Sandy take me home—I'm sick?" . . . "Mr. Barton, may I use your phone?" . . . "Daddy!" . . . Repeated visits from many different students, and one special visitor who usually left his means of transportation parked in the hall outside "the office" door. Afternoon announcements were taken care of by Mr. Barton, and his voice was often heard just before the ringing of the last bell of the school day . . . "No buses will be taken to the game tonight." . . . "There will be no baseball practice after school today." . . . "Mrs. Beck said not to forget the important meeting of J.V. Cheerleaders."

Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Rhodenizer were the secretaries of L.H.S. They "labored" everyday, typing absentee lists . . . counting money . . . posting books . . . checking files . . . sorting mail . . . finding band-aids . . . and lending extra time to students in need of envelopes, paper clips, and sometimes glue.

The OFFICE of L.H.S. exuded a helpful atmosphere . . . filled with friendliness . . . certainly no student of L.H.S. had to fear the "office".

Thank you Mr. Barton, Mrs. Rhodenizer and Mrs. Owens.

GUIDANCE—KNOWING INDIVIDUALS

Mrs. Delores B. Bausum
Guidance Counselor
Louisiana College, B.A.

Mr. John L. Umholtz
Guidance Counselor
Emory and Henry, B.A.
Virginia Polytechnic Institute, M.S.
University of Virginia

Miss Morrison comes back and listens carefully to the plans of a few Seniors.

Consoling "hysterical" Seniors over their class rank and their applications to various schools... Informing Juniors about their upcoming college boards... Stressing the importance of class scheduling to all underclassmen... These were a few of the responsibilities shared by Mrs. Bausum and Mr. Umholtz throughout the school year.

Mrs. Bausum was new to LHS, arriving after the resignation of Mrs. Eloise Broadneux, and came to the school in the middle of compiling class ranks, filling out college applications, and writing letters of recommendation. Mr. Umholtz knew what to expect upon previous experience with the individuals at LHS, and worked with each one in order to have an academically qualified student body... Miss Morrison returned to LHS to lend a portion of her experience until all was under skillful control...

"Mr. Umholtz, could I talk to you about dropping study hall?"... "Mrs. Bausum, should I apply on early decision?"... "Miss Morrison! What are you doing here?"... Mrs. Bausum and Mr. Umholtz worked continuously with individual records acquainting themselves with the different students, and aided them in making decisions for their future needs at LHS. Through their dedicated work, the student body of LHS benefitted as a whole.

THEY CLEANED, COOKED, SANG, AND JOKED.

Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. Dale, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Nicely, Mrs. Swink, Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Smith.

Mr. Elwood Harlow

Whistling, always ready with a joke or a mischievous smile Mr. Harlow worked through the school year, making his presence a joy to all at L.H.S. His assistance was in demand at every crisis which affected teachers and students . . . changing light bulbs . . . fixing pencil sharpeners . . . lugging ladders through halls for dainty young girls . . . guiding students through "clean-up day" . . . making it warmer . . . making it cooler . . . sweeping floors after S.C.A. elections assembly . . . operating the grills for the National Honor Society banquet . . . helping get ready for dances . . . getting coke machines ready . . . in fact anything he could do to help L.H.S. run more smoothly.

"Wonder what's for lunch", was the inevitable question at L.H.S. If nothing else was heard on the daily bulletin which was read in first period class every morning the answer to this question was heeded. The answer to this question was answered by the ladies of the Cafeteria staff, who had the duty of preparing wholesome meals for the faculty and students. They prepared daily menus . . . sure tender steaks . . . hot homemade rolls and biscuits . . . hamburgers . . . cheeseburgers . . . pizza-burgers . . . prunes . . . chocolate cake . . . and even in their creativity "chicken-fried steak". Confronted many times by playful complaints from "picky" students, the ladies displayed their cool and relied on their motto "take it or leave it" and we took it and enjoyed it!

Each member of the faculty added his own magic touch to this "business of teaching" by reflecting a unique personality . . . "honey, I lo-o-o-ve it" . . . "hahn?" . . . "pardon this interruption for one short announcement" . . . dissecting frogs in spite of a weak stomach . . . putting off paperwork to watch "Laugh-In" . . . passing up "Laugh-In" to get in last-minute grades . . . without the chatoyancy of these personalities there would be no Lexington High School.

"Guten Tag, Klasse!"

Reading all those books required for honestly evaluating students' reports can be tiring, Miss Benedict?

Reunion.

SENIORS

Long after the Seniors have left Lexington, memories of their high school days will still be with them; remembrances of events which have made the Class of 1969 a unified body, striving to meet the challenges which every individual must face. A new administration assuming the responsibilities of leadership student activities being supervised by the reorganized Student Cooperative Association an examination of, and, subsequently a strengthening of the honor system these are only some of the changes which have taken place at Lexington High School during the five years that the Class of 1969 has been in existence. These memories, still well-defined because they are near, will mellow into a subtle reminiscence of the molding of young lives.

Working long hours as juniors to perfect a Prom worthy of Lexington High School each senior contributing a few pennies to make Operation Turkey a successful class project enjoying the superior feeling of having class privileges sharing the joys and anticipations that arise at the nearing of Graduation what could better unite a class than these mutual experiences? Although time will slip by, and many things will be forgotten, no member of the Class of 1969 will lose remembrance of the personal concern for one another which has made the Class of 1969 a uniformity of individuals.

With added responsibilities, the Junior class gained the maturity and the power of reasoning which play vital roles in the making of the complete individual. In their struggle to find themselves, they realized the value of mutual experiences shared by each member of the Class during the years at Lexington High School.

Resourcefulness came to the fore as the Class of 1970 devised ingenious money-making schemes to finance the Junior-Senior Prom. Selling Scarlet Hurricane bumper stickers . . . organizing and promoting the successful Christmas Dance . . . defeating the Seniors in the initial Powder Puff football game . . . these activities provided the funds for the annual Prom.

With college board examinations looming in front of them, the Juniors began to consider more seriously their futures as responsible individuals, assuming the obligations of adulthood. Thoughtfully, they looked ahead to their last semesters in high school and pondered the years beyond with a new awareness; an awareness that they could attain higher goals because of a united effort.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Vice-President, Paul Coleman; Secretary-Treasurer, Nell Reeves; and President, Joyce Reynolds, lead the Class of 1970 in making important decisions.

Caught in a whirl of activities, Sophomores were swept into the mainstream of student life. In the midst of their high school careers they had established themselves as responsible members of the school community and had gained proficiency in their scholastic endeavors. Awaiting the title of "upperclassmen," Sophomores found time to look back on past experiences and to anticipate the future.

Actively participating in the Student Cooperative Association . . . distinguishing themselves in fields of science, English, and math . . . providing skill and experience for the Junior Varsity teams . . . advocating personal integrity through an active role in the honor system . . . by the end of the year, the Sophomore class had acquired the insight to objectively contemplate that part of their lives which lay ahead.

Each Sophomore realized the fundamental value of his high school career as the foundation upon which to build his future. The unified effort of the Class of 1971 to prove itself worthy of the privileges and responsibilities of an upperclass, enabled each individual to better face the challenges of life.

Profiting from a year of experience, the Freshmen entered their first actual semesters of high school with poise and self-assurance. Aware of the part they play in active school life, the ninth graders were ready to accept the challenges of added responsibility as they gradually assumed positions of leadership.

Participating in Junior Varsity athletic events . . . demonstrating school spirit by supporting literary publications . . . adding unity and harmony to Lexington High School by contributing resourcefulness and enthusiasm to club projects . . . energetically the Freshmen class plunged into a sea of activities, proving themselves to be both capable and trustworthy.

Preparing for the years that lie ahead, Lexington's Freshmen sought to strengthen their character by choosing their courses of study and citing life-time goals. An interlocking of personalities created in each individual a feeling of security at being a part of the Unified Class of 1972.

AWARENESS

The halls seemed smaller, or was it that they were bigger? In their first real year of high school, Freshman girls outgrew their eighth grade lankiness and the boys became conscious of that stubborn cowlick. Saturday night no longer meant television; it meant dates, parties, dances. A new order emerged—"CLEAR THE HALLS—HERE WE COME!"

In September of 1968 a new class entered Lexington High School; a class of young students eager for the stimulating atmosphere of high school life. Stepping into a unique world of strange surroundings, unfamiliar faces, and difficult assignments, Lexington's newcomers were awe-stricken but hopeful.

Growing through experience . . . launching careers for tomorrow in the dreams of today . . . each making an individual effort to carve a niche for himself and for his classmates . . . inspiring school spirit with their uninhibited enthusiasm . . . because of their talent and creativity the eighth graders soon became a vital part of the student body of Lexington High School.

As the year progressed, the eighth grade class found itself transformed from over 200 solitary individuals into a united body. Together they made a place for themselves in the daily routine of Lexington High School and assumed the duties of being responsible members of the school community. The eighth grade year was a memorable one for the Class of 1973; a year of growth and discovery and a realization of things to come.

Tish Miller, eighth grade Homecoming representative, reflects the vivacity of the entire class.

The youngest class entered Lexington full of new, exciting notions. They were exuberant, compelled by a zest for activity unequalled by any other class. With them came a liveliness and intensity that did much to make a special place for the Class of 1973, both in the classroom and in extracurricular activities.

"There will be an S.C.A. meeting third period in the art room. Will all club presidents and first period representatives please be present" . . . "I can't help it if you do have a test fifth period, the meeting is still third" . . . "What's the use of having a clean-up if we can't have a sock-hop afterwards" . . . "Let's see . . . during lunch we'll have volleyball, pingpong, basketball and music. That should do it" . . . "And if I catch a boy on the girls' volleyball court . . . " . . . "Susan, I told you to have the pictures for the scrapbook" . . . "But Clark, the State Convention is this weekend!" . . . Now listen, y'all, we're going to have to do this landscaping together" . . . "Why can't I bring my pet piranha for the fish pond?" . . . "What do ya mean, you forgot to take minutes at the last meeting?"

"Now, about the election of S.C.A. officers" . . . "Who could resist voting for such a handsome, well-qualified . . . why, just look at those muscles!" . . . "L.H.S. needs my candidate!" . . . "And if I am elected president, I promise . . . "

This was the S.C.A. 1969, Progress Unlimited, the voice of the student body.

*I will be honest in taking all tests and examinations as well as in doing homework and class work.
I will not take the property of another person or of my school without proper authorization.
I will not deface school property.
I will show my loyalty to my school by being truthful and generally conducting myself properly in all phases of school life.*

During the 1968-69 school year polls conducted by some of the school's groups showed that the students of LHS are proud of their Honor Code and that students feel they benefit by growing in independent action as a result of participating in an Honor Code whose effectiveness rests upon each individual student. There is also a maturing in the understanding of upholding the Code for the good of the whole school.

The Honor Council enforced and upheld the Honor Code (printed above). They held an honor assembly in the fall to introduce new students to the Code and to reaffirm with all students the values of such a Code to our Student Body. Members of the Council were chosen by a joint student-faculty committee, and the individual members were elected by their respective classes.

Noxious odors drifting into the halls . . . concocting mysterious mixtures over a bunsen burner . . . calculating the horsepower emitted by a typical student dashing to the cafeteria . . . the CPHS made its presence known in many ways. "I can't help it if my sulfur solution smells like rotten eggs" . . . "Hey, can anyone tell me how to use a slide rule" . . . "Whoever would have thought that little drop of hydrochloric acid would make a big explosion like that" . . . "May I go get a band aid?" . . . "I burned my hand bending glass." Members of the CPHS were busy people, sometimes right . . . sometimes confused . . . always inquiring. Miss Elizabeth Dunlap served as faculty advisor to the CPHS which honored its newly-inducted members with a party and . . . "Well, No, I didn't bake that cake in the lab." . . . "Hasn't anyone told you experiments are fun?"

The CPHS builds the scientists of tomorrow from the lab assistants of today.

THE CRYSTAL

Seated: Janet Pickral, Copy Editor; Anita Filson, Assistant Copy Editor; Paul Whitehead, Sports Editor; Kathy Moore; Cheryl Buchanan, Editor. Not Pictured: Linda McKemy, Lay-Out Editor. Standing: Judy Hamm, Wally Campbell, Asst. Business Mgr.; Eddie Fifer, Business Manager; Fred Roberts, Patrick Williamson, Skip Ravenhorst, Photographers; Alice Moore, Chief Typist; Christy Miller, Assistant Lay-Out Editor.

"Cheryl, we've got to have a Crystal meeting every day this week," ... "And would you please tell me how you lost page 136?" ... "Oh, I lo-o-ve that picture!" ... "All right, staff, don't you want a good yearbook?" ... "Let me see, now what did I do with that Junior section?" ... "No, I haven't seen your green eraser!" ... "We're never going to make that deadline if this staff doesn't get together!"

The Crystal staff had a million and one things to do—copy, lay-out, pictures. Sometimes the busy afternoons spilled over into nights of working, trying to meet a deadline or finish a class section.

The hectic pace never seemed to let up, even though the Crystal became a full year coverage this year for the first time. More pictures, bigger pages, more pages, and more attention to our school's story kept us busy. Eight members attended the Del-Mar Workshop at Bedford, Va. and two attended S.I.P.A.

Despite the headaches of identifying class pictures, the re-doing of lay-outs, the re-wording of copy to carry out our theme, the staff of 1968-69 had a tremendous time, with each individual supplying his own personal creativity to the final finished product, a production which is a credit to the team.

Picture taking and money raising were constant activities.

Staff members make sure Mr. Baber does the job right.

Anita and Charlie present a skit during the magazine drive.

Without the aid of Mr. Potter and the Community the budget of the Crystal would have been difficult to reach, but, this year, like past years, Mr. Potter directed the magazine drive and the community responded magnificently. Thank you!

This time, the staff directs and Mr. Baber watches. We have some "tough" pictures for we worked well together.

SCARLETTER

Seated: Clark Graff, Debbie Harmison, advisor Miss Mary Lou Williams, Editor Maxine Moore, Molly Emrey, George Thomas. Standing: Jeanne Rabe, Kim Payne, Nancy Atthowe, Scott Nelson, Keith Davis.

"Well, you can just take it or leave it!"

"O.K., who's going to be the Senior Spotlight this week?" . . . "Hey, Max, does "tomorrow" have two "m's" or one?" . . . "But you were supposed to take pictures at the dance!" . . . "We need more opinions on this poll" . . . "Hey, Paul, how about working up another el rojo this week?"

The Scarletter staff—where the action was . . . conducting polls on the election and validity of the honor system . . . flashing cameras at dances and games . . . welcoming new students and teachers.

This was the Scarletter of 1969!

Seated: Laura Koiner, Nanette Agnor, Linda Henry. Standing: Mark Nelson, Ken Fulp, Lila Cloar, Fred Roberts.

"Surely you jest, Keith."

Here's proof . . . Graff isn't always flirting!

Seated: Jeanne Rabe, Anne Feddeman, Martha Beebe, Nancy Robinson, Chris Moorhead, Eileen Head. Standing: Fred Roberts, Skip Ravenhorst, Paul Whitehead.

LITERARY MAGAZINE "REFLECTIONS"

"Now what should we put on the cover?" . . . "We can't use that picture with this poem!" . . . "Hey, who wrote this short story?" . . . "Oh, no! This person has seven articles!" . . . "How do you illustrate a poem about the Scarlet Hurricane?" . . .

The Literary Magazine was a publication in which the students could express themselves in poetry, narratives, and short stories. Sometimes writers were anonymous, but by their ideas, and the way in which they were expressed, these writers could often be identified. And this was the purpose of the Literary Magazine—to identify the student body through the expression of mutual experiences.

"1-2-3-4-5 . . ."

Bob Lam returns for refill, as Bob Wilson continues the attack.

Spears, shovels, rakes, and other needed “weapons” were used by the members of Interact last fall as they made their attack on the grounds of LHS, hoping to rid the area of unattractive debris . . . Spring time and sunny weather brought out, not only flowers, but the Interact Club—this time equipped with a water hose, buckets, sponges, rags, soap, and wax for their community car-wash which they held at LHS.

Interact was sponsored by the Lexington Rotary, and was made up of boys who wanted to help their city by hard work devoted to community projects. They not only concentrated on projects around school, but also gave time to civic activities, such as shoveling snow and mowing lawns for Lexington families . . . “Hey, Wayne! Don’t drop that flower box—the merchants want to use them next year.” . . . “Okay—quit loafing. Pick up that rake and get to work!” . . . “Mr. Lauck! We can’t get any water to come out of the hose!” . . . the “working-class” of LHS.

CO-ED HI-Y

Advisor: Mrs. Royce Singer

Seated: Allen Nicely, Treasurer; Alice Moore, Vice-President; Jane Beckner Johnson, President; Larry Blackwell, Secretary; Sherri Richards; Margaret Higgins, Chaplain. Standing: Brenda Beard, Marleen Miller, Carolyn Reid, Crawford Goodbar, Charlotte Mays, Lois Beckner, Gail Hostetter.

To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character this was the purpose of the Co-Ed Hi-Y. They sold doughnuts to raise money and used this money to give a party for under-privileged children at Christmas and a picnic in the spring. They also contributed to the school in the purchase of a new school flag.

Members of the Co-Ed Hi-Y entertain under-privileged children at Christmas time.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Solemnity, seriousness of purpose, learning, and joyousness were symptomatic of the F.T.A. this year. Under the leadership of Mrs. Joan Sailer, the F.T.A. took on new dimensions. An impressive initiation ceremony at Mrs. Sailer's lent dignity to becoming a member. Hearing a faculty panel on "Teaching As a Career" gave members new insight into the fun and work which make the profession. A Christmas party for the kindergarten and first grade at Ann Smith School was fun for all. Two awards were made; one was a $100 scholarship to a high school senior who plans to make teaching a career, and the other to the Outstanding F.T.A. member of the year. A point system was set up for determining future outstanding members. Some of the activities will include observation, reading professional materials, helping teachers, and going to educational meetings.

Wide-eyes hear a Christmas story.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

Officers of FBLA, Patsy Hayslette, Barbara Hall, Clyde Fitzgerald, Bonnie Hartless, Jane Fries, Darlene Reynolds, and Billy Johnson, acquaint themselves with the techniques of accurate work.

Georgia Harris, Jo Ann Beard, Barbara Hall, Fontaine Swisher, and Veney McKemy work together on decorations for a club project.

Typewriters clicking, adding machines humming, and pencils busily taking notes were familiar sounds to the members of FBLA. The club was composed of students who were enrolled in business courses at LHS, and its purpose was to familiarize the students with the world of business. With the supervision of Miss Clark, Miss Compton, and Mrs. Wertz, the club participated actively in a variety of school functions. The club members sponsored a sock-hop after our game with Amherst, entered an activities book contest at a regional meeting, helped to tabulate the results of the City Swimming Pool Survey, and worked with many teachers and students in compiling the SCA scrapbook.

FBLA sponsors, Mrs. Wertz, Miss Clark, and Miss Compton review plans for upcoming meetings.

Members of the club, Janet Amos, Clyde Fitzgerald, Betty Jarvis, Beuhla Sweet, Carolyn Bowyer, and Elena Piercy practice their skills with office equipment.

Barbara and Clyde work on Scrapbook to take to State F.B.L.A. convention.

Mrs. Wertz and Miss Clark are serious about F.B.L.A., even during their lunch.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

With Mrs. Tardy, Debbie Farrow, Ingrid Conner, Pam Hartless, Debbie Potter, Brenda Greever, and Gail Goodbar make plans for a busy year. These girls also served on the State Degree Committee.

To be a member of the F.H.A. a student must have been enrolled in Home Economics Education. She worked wholeheartedly to support the purposes of F.H.A. These purposes are: to promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking, to emphasize the importance of worthy home membership, to encourage democracy in home and community life, to work for good home and family life for all, to promote international good will, to foster the development of creative leadership in home and community life, and to provide wholesome individual and group recreation.

"I really didn't mean to break the sewing machine" . . . "Mrs. Tardy, can we serve cocktails before the banquet?" . . . "Hey! Why don't we make some clothes for the Cupids?" . . . "Oh no! I left out the yeast in my bread" . . . "Whose turn is it to wash the dishes?" . . . "Who was the wise guy who put the garlic in my pancake batter?" . . . "Why did I ever take Home Ec.?"

DECA was very active during 1968-69. The activities began with a dance in the fall called "The Roach In The Wall". Music was provided by the "Legions".

The Fall DECA Rally was held at L.H.S. on November 6th. All schools in District IX were represented at this meeting. All officers were installed by Ellen Clark, former Junior Board Member. Workshops were held to prepare students for the District Leadership Conference.

The District Leadership Conference was held at Waynesboro High School on February 26. At the conference, Pam Hartless won first place as Junior Board member for next year. Billy Johnson won second place in public speaking. Other students representing the chapter were Vickie Ruley, job interview; Mike Hoke, sales demonstration; Paul Nicely and Larry Black, display; Billy Kessinger, advertising layout and Carolyn Bowyer and Pam Hartless, sales judging.

The State Leadership Conference was held in Washington, D. C. Mike Hoke, Pam Hartless, and Billy Johnson served as voting delegates to this meeting.

LATIN CLUB

Advisor: Mrs. Lucille Weaver

The Latin Club of Lexington High School functioned to enable Latin students to informally study Roman life and customs. Since the club met during class periods, the only requirement for membership was that the student be enrolled in Latin.

Mrs. Weaver directed club members in producing slides illustrating famous scenes from Roman mythology, showing modern uses of Latin in bulletin board displays, and participating in programs and contests based on Roman life.

The Latin Honor Club, Discipuli Laudandi, was organized to recognize students with an outstanding record in Latin and to encourage their further pursuit of classical study. To be eligible for membership, a student must have had five semesters of Latin with an average of "B" for at least three semesters preceding initiation. This club helped to plan Lexington High's first foreign language carol sing. Club members also prepared a script and slides for Plautus' play, "The Pot of Gold", and with the help of first and second year Latin students, staged a Roman funeral.

German Club president, Stephan Shaner, leads his fellow hikers on the long climb up House Mountain.

"May I speak in English?" . . . this request was a well-worn phrase by the end of the year, as the members of the newly organized German Club took up the study of German culture with overwhelming eagerness and enthusiasm. Fellow students were often amazed by the sounds of spirited discussions, heated debates, and dramatic dialogues . . . all spoken in a foreign language!

"Frau Beck, I think we should climb House Mountain as soon as possible—before the snakes come out" . . . "Now, these are slides of my first trip to Germany" . . . "You'd better listen to these reports—there may just be some questions about them on your next test" . . . "I think Stephan should ride in the bike race—he's a real speed demon" . . . "Is that chewing gum? You know that you can't speak properly with such an obstruction in your mouth. Spit it out" . . . "Anyone care to play Scrabble—auf Deutsch, natürlich" . . . "I like my German name better than my regular one. Is there any way that I can change it permanently" . . .

Advised by Mrs. Carolyn Beck, the German Club explored thoroughly the history and culture of the German people, as well as their modern economy and social problems.

FRENCH CLUB

Through films, discussions, speeches, and skits, the members of the French Club learned about the French people and their customs. Various films of France were shown at meetings which related customs of the country, and noted important towns and provinces in France. Professor Brochman from Washington & Lee presented a lecture on a comparison between the book and the movie, The Stranger. In order to be a member of the French Club, a student had to take French as a school subject.

First Lieutenants: Steve Zollman, Evie Ravenhorst, Paulette Moore.
Second Lieutenants: Margaret Williams, Robin Haden.

Cooperation was the key word for the band at L.H.S. They worked alone perfecting skills and then put the individual skills together to make beautiful sounds for all. They were heard at football games, in parades, at a Christmas and a spring concert, as well as a special concert in the spring to raise money for uniforms. They sponsored a musical show, participated in the All-Regional Band and All-Regional District Festival, and sponsored an All-County Reading Clinic. Individually and in small groups they were key performers in an S.C.A. Variety Show. One of the final memories of the 1969 Senior Class was the marching from the field after receiving their diplomas, to the cadence of the LHS Band playing the Recessional.

The band and majorettes provide halftime entertainment at Homecoming.

The sound of music was heard at all hours from the music and art building . . . shuffling of sheet music . . . clearing of throats . . . sounding of pitch pipe . . . striking of "Middle C" . . . finally many voices blending to make beautiful sounds. Some of the results of these sounds and hours of practice were heard at two Christmas programs . . . one presented at a school assembly and the other a night performance; an Easter Cantata; performances in community churches; a special participation in the S.C.A. Variety show; and special numbers given during graduation exercises.

Clyde Fitzgerald, Joyce Reynolds, Vickie Leonard, and Charlene Spraggins attended the All-Regional Chorus at Amherst High School, and members also attended the Junior High Clinic at Woodstock.

Hands and faces covered with an oozing mixture of paste and newspaper were the results of the first meeting of the Art Club. During this meeting the members worked on a project for the Homecoming Parade—a dragon head! The approach of Christmas holidays found the students making Christmas cards which they sold to the faculty and students at school. The Art Club sponsored an art show in which individuals could enter their personal creations. This project was most successful, and was enjoyed by both the artist and viewers.

Artistic abilities are expressed during the student art show.

CHESS CLUB

Concentrated silence . . . Checkmate. Newly organized this year, the Chess Club proved to be an enjoyable organization for students with the interest of learning or improving their skills in the game of chess. Under the supervision of Mr. William Leech, the group held matches at school, and met every Tuesday at the Lexington Presbyterian Church. From these matches each member had his winnings and losses recorded on a chart. The organization was comprised of two sections—those students who belonged to the regular Chess Club, and a specific division known as the Tournament Group. Tournament players were chosen for the exceptional skills which they had exhibited during regular chess matches.

TOURNAMENT GROUP: Table: John Harer, David Hunter, Eddie Fifer. Officers: Standing: Chris Clayton, Charles Thomas, Kim Payne, Clark Graff, Greg Mays, David Sensabaugh, Gene Hostetter, Bill Roberts.

LIBRARY CLUB

Seated: Mrs. Eliza McHenry, Advisor; Alice Moore, President; Teresa Roloff, Sec.-Treas. Standing: Connie Berry, Beth Pierce, Joyce Coleman, Maria Thomas, Vicki Entsminger, Pam Whitsell, Debra Martin, Linda Tolley.

Teresa Roloff, Sheila Johnson, and Alice Moore direct the affairs of the Library Club.

"Let's go down and see if Mrs. Newman will buy any books" . . . "Pam, you push this cart around for a while. I'm tired" . . . "Girls, you must be alert. No one will want to buy a book if you don't smile" . . . Such comments were expressed during morning hours, as several girls of the Library Club worked hard to sell their paperback books to fellow students and teachers.

"Next year, why don't we let the teachers give us the tea party" . . . "Watch out for that chair—oops—oh well, we didn't really need that extra tray of cookies" . . . "The table looks lovely! I hope Mr. Morrison will appreciate the flower arrangement" . . . Under the direction of Mrs. Eliza McHenry, long hours of planning and preparation went into the successful spring tea which the club sponsored in honor of the faculty. Sending invitations . . . welcoming honored guests . . . "Mrs. Price, are you sure you wouldn't like a copy of this book? It's a real bargain for only 75¢"!

Charlene Spraggins, Beulah Sweet, Danny Tetlow, Sherri Richards, Betty Littlepage, Marilyn Snider, and Janet Irvine display their responsibilities as student librarians.

“Shh!” . . . “Lois, would you please help me find this book?” . . . “What do you mean I have an over-do book?” . . . “I owe how much?” . . . So a library was supposed to have been quiet—but, it played a large part in students’ lives, and where you had students, there was always action, and the student librarians witnessed this! Flipping through card files, and transporting books to and from the rows of shelves were two daily tasks performed by the librarians. They also had the responsibility of keeping the library attractive, and did so by the display of colorful bulletin boards—one they decorated especially for the Senior Class!

LITERARY CLUB

The Literary Club functioned with the intention of encouraging the study of good literature. Led by Mrs. Dorothy Newman, the club members discussed such novels as Crime and Punishment, Ivanhoe, Pride and Prejudice, and Ethan Frome. Plans were made to view the film Pride and Prejudice in order to compare the two interpretations.

"Please pick up your books in the library. A meeting will be held in two weeks to discuss Ethan Frome." . . . "Now Nancy, why did the selection make you cry?" . . . "Personally, I thought the movie was ten times better!" . . . "Mrs. Newman, I just can't understand it if it's written in poetry!" Comments like these changed to, "That book has unity in style and theme", "I cried because that author's purpose and style really made me relate," and "Really, it is hard for a movie to say, in just the same way, what that writer intended."

Interest in, an enthusiasm for, and a deeper understanding of the purposes of literature grew out of experiences together in this club.

Thespians Troupe 3009 was one of the most active organizations at L.H.S., as the members assisted with the Christmas Music Program, participated in efforts to clear the backstage area, and served as the technical crew on the S.C.A. backstage committee. Individual performances and group cooperation led to the production of outstanding theater for a high school. Three one-act plays were presented in the fall. Kathy Graff's tremendous portrayal as Tessie Huchison in Shirley Jackson's The Lottery literally had those on stage, as well as those in the audience, enthralled. The spring production was The Curious Savage.

The purpose of the Thespians Troupe is to encourage interest and active participation in the dramatic arts. To become members of the National Thespians, members of the local troop must meet the approval of their sponsor, and must earn ten points for excellent work in drama. An unsatisfactory performance of duties may lead to expulsion or suspension of membership. Grease paint, lights, staging, blocking, and the excitement of opening nights were very much a part of the year 1968-69 at L.H.S.

SCIENCE CLUB

Advisor: Mr. Emory Potter
 President: Chris Wise
 V.-President: Mark Nelson
 Sec.-Treasurer: David Woody

The Science Club gave interested students a chance to work on special projects and a chance to pursue individual interests in the fields of Physical and Biological Science. The highlight of the year was the Science Fair which was sponsored by Lexington High School this year. Other schools in this competition were Natural Bridge and Rockbridge. The winners from the local fair went to the Western Division. Bill Roberts won a first place award for the most outstanding project in electronics communications. Entries in the Science Fair from Lexington High School were: "Analog Computer", Alex Colvin; "Taxonomy of Rumex Cripus in and around Lexington", Scot Nelson; "Flame Loudspeaker", Bill Roberts; "Laser", Gene Hostetter; "Celestial Space Ship Navigation System", Robert Justice; "Mendel's Calculations", Ed. Duvall; "Effects of Acceleration on Algae and Fish", Chris Smart.

The greenhouse made a beautiful setting for the Conservation Club. Under the very able leadership of Mr. Harold Morrison, the major objectives of this club were developed. The members were encouraged to know and speak up for good conservation practices. By setting examples and talking to their friends and associates they hoped to further the cause of conservation.

They planned several projects, one special one, that of taking an active role in the planting project sponsored by the S.C.A.

Two members worked on projects for the science fair.

The squeaking of chalk . . . a shuffling of numbers . . . a puzzled expression . . . more manipulation . . . and then—the answer! The students at L.H.S. found the Math Club a medium through which they explored and shared their mutual interests in the field of mathematics. Membership was open to all Lexington High School students interested in mathematics who had successfully completed their first year of algebra.

"INSIGHT L.H.S." GAVE RADIO EXPERIENCE.

"Good evening, this is Jeanne Rabe for Insight L.H.S." . . . "Terry! Can't you get rid of those clicks on the tape" . . . "Do you think he'll like it, Mrs. Read" . . .

The problems, noises and finished tapes echoed through the downstairs hall, as another "Insight L.H.S." program was prepared for weekly presentation.

"Insight L.H.S.", Lexington's own radio show, was in its second year of presenting news and views of L.H.S. students to the community at large. Mrs. Read, the faculty sponsor, and announcers Jeanne Rabe and Debbie Harmison headed this year's efforts. Responsibility for the taping of each week's program was handled by a staff of technicians headed by Terry Atwood.

The idea behind "Insight L.H.S." was to serve as another means of communicating to the community the activities and ideas of individuals and groups at L.H.S.

Mrs. Read directs the radio staff.

The weekly news is read by Jeanne Rabe.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

Chris Moorhead; Susan Lewis, Co-Head; Susan Ellington.

With cries of "Let's go Big Red, let's go" the cheerleaders spurred the Scarlet Hurricane on to victory. They drew pictures, painted posters, developed dance routines—threw themselves and the students into the spirit of Lexington High School.

"Freeze 2-3-4-5-6-7-8, do that stuff" . . . "We've got the boys on our team—they're GREAT!" . . . "Now here's a tip our team's on top" . . . "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y!" . . .

In the middle of megaphones, pom-poms, red-and-white, the cheerleaders showed that Lexington High School and the Scarlet Hurricane were No. 1!

JUNIOR VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders, ten lively, energetic underclass girls, were essential in promoting school spirit. With Mrs. Carolyn Beck acting as sponsor, they organized two summer bake sales and a car wash. They were responsible for rallying school spirit at J.V. games and added their enthusiasm to school Pep Assemblies. Since the Varsity Cheerleaders used the downstairs hall for practice, the upper hall became the stamping ground for the J.V.'s. Interestingly enough, their hang-out was just outside of where the Crystal staff was at work, and if the lay-outs seem Psychedelic you know why!

Bodies moving in time to a driving beat and batons twirling in space, seven individuals led the LHS band through a year of musical spirit. These seven individuals, the LHS Majorettes, not only performed with the band, but were also members of the band. During the year, the Majorettes performed several routines. One of the most unusual was at Homecoming festivities with fire batons which they had purchased. They also planned a pom-pom routine which they wanted to perform during basketball season. Sponsored by Miss Alice Bryant, the Majorettes again displayed their unique style of school spirit.

Drum Major, Clyde Fitzgerald.

PEP SQUAD

Miss Edna Compton, Advisor.

In order to give L.H.S. athletic teams the strongest support possible, the Pep Squad sponsored buses to away games, encouraged school spirit through giving prizes for colorful posters, and they planned successfully many Homecoming activities, including the bonfire, movie and half-time performance.

One of the largest clubs at L.H.S., the Pep Squad was very active with the leadership of Miss Compton and Debbie Harmison, president.

MONOGRAM CLUB

Crawford Goodbar and Steve Zollman donate some time to the concession stand.

For men only . . . not playboys, but boys who play—sports . . . This was the Monogram Club, a rough, tough, hard working group of athletes who gave all they had to L.H.S. To promote and improve athletic activities—this was their purpose.

The only requirement for membership was a tough one—a hard earned monogram in a varsity sport. The boys in the club worked at a concession stand during basketball games in order to earn money for senior athletic awards, which were presented in the spring. During a special assembly, senior players proudly received their gold sports charms, the symbol of hard work and dedicated spirit.

ATHLETICS

Coaches Brewbaker and Williams.

The 1968 Scarlet Hurricane, plagued by injury and misfortune, struggled to a 4-6 overall record, climaxed by the upset win over Parry McCluer of Buena Vista in the Shrine Bowl. Seniors Buck Leslie and Tommy Sorrells earned All-Valley-District honors and quarterback Jay Jones ranked high in punting statistics. The future looks bright for 1969 as half-backs John Sheridan, Bryant Mason and Peter Macheras return along with fullback Will Leech.

FOR THIRD PLACE

Coach Gene Sloane moved his Lexington career record to 73 wins and 35 losses with a 12-7 performance in 1969. Senior captain Skip Styles was the main Hurricane threat. With over 800 lifetime points and 60 in the '69 Valley Tournament, Skip was both All-District and All-Tournament first team. Chuck Williams and Billy Nicely rounded out the scoring punch and both were rewarded with berths on the All-Tournament teams.

Once again the future looks bright for the Hurricane as Robert Veney, Allen Nicely and Doug Chase return to supply the offensive power in 1970.

The Hurricane prided itself on defense and came in second only to district champion Amherst in that category.

Offensively, the Redmen relied on Styles outside and Williams underneath. Doing the major portion of the board work were Larry Blackwell and Jay Jones.

BATSMEN'S RALLY FALLS SHORT DESPITE 7 FOR 8 STREAK

Riding on pure hustle and desire, the Red Batsmen made a valiant effort to make the annual tourney. Paced by the fantastic pitching performance of sophomore Billy Fox (6-0) and the slugging of Larry Blackwell, Bradley Rhodenizer and Barry Flint along with the running attack of Larry Lotts, Paul Whitehead and Allen Nicely, the Hurricane came within three innings of making the tournament.

THINCLADS RANK 4th

In a rebuilding year, the Hurricane thinclads pulled upset after upset and finished the season with only two defeats in dual meets. When these figures are compared with the five regular season wins and the strong showing in the state meet, the job Coach Williams has done becomes evident. Led by a strong senior contingent, the Redmen led the way for Tommy Sorrells record breaking tosses in the shot and discus. Bobby Lam went on to new heights in the high jump with his record setting leap of five feet, ten inches. Both Sorrells and sophomore sprint star Peter Macheras went to the state meet with Sorrells bringing home two third-place medals.

LINKSTERS PLACE

Led by senior aces Billy Nicely and Chuck Williams, the Hurricane golf squad continued its winning traditions under the coaching of Coach Brewbaker. Nosed out of first place in the annual tournament by a spectacular performance of the Leemen of Staunton, the Linksters came back in the State Tourney and resoundly beat the Leemen while placing third in the tournament. BILLY EDWARD NICELY— 1969 ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

The preceding pages are covered with pictures of the best of the Scarlet Hurricane. Pictured above is the best of the best. Billy Edward Nicely while at Lexington High has overcome every conceivable type of obstacle to excel and excel with honor. Voted Player-of-the-Year by his football teammates, Billy lettered three years on the gridiron. He played at one time or another at every offensive and defensive backfield position besides kicking extra-points. In basketball he lettered twice, co-captain his senior year and was selected to the All-Tournament Team in '69. As a freshman, Billy played baseball, lettering there with a .300 batting average. As a sophomore, he switched to golf where eventually he lettered twice, played on a State Championship Team and became the number six golfer in the State Group I-B.

Mike Hill and Jay Jones present a skit.

Skippy Ravenhorst, Master of Ceremonies.

Betsy Williams, Tish Turner, Day Leech, Barbara Henderson, Cheryl Buchanan, Kathy Moore, Sherri Richards, and Janet Irvine listen to Linda McKemy recite a poem.

Mrs. Price promises to learn a second song on her guitar as she accepts a Learn-how record from Skip.

GRADUATION

As Mr. Barton watches, Mr. Thompson presents Brenda Turner her diploma.

Lois Carter and Clark Graff listen intently.

BUILDING CONTRACTORS

Our engineers, like our other employees, are dedicated to serving customers well. Engineers work in many fields, such as industrial sales or project & design, and they often take postgraduate training courses to keep abreast of the rapid progress in their specialty. They are typical of their fellow employees who work and study so that gas service will be constantly improved.
